

Quarantine Diary

March 2020

14th: It was a normal Saturday where I was with my parents and didn't leave the house.

15th: I was a little upset, because I couldn't have lunch with my grandparents as usual.

16th: It was weird not having to wake up early to go to classes.

17th: -I started receiving homework from all subjects and I think I will not be able to do them all.

18th: I'm a little tired of being at home, on top of that my sisters are unbearable.

19th: Today I didn't do much, I just started reading a book.

20th: It's been a week today and time is running very slowly. I miss my class, my friends, and even classes.

21st: We stayed at home all day, we took the opportunity to play a board game that we hadn't played in years. After all, quarantine is doing something good. It is making our relationship stronger.

22nd: I finally left the house to go to the pharmacy and get some pizzas that we ordered, the city was flies, even "got in" confusion. In the afternoon we played a card game.

23rd: I feel that I am getting used to this routine more and more, now I have stipulated that every day I have to exercise and I feel much better, because it does me well and to keep me in shape.

24th: I miss my family a lot, I just hope this goes by quickly.

25th: I was busy doing work, so the day went by faster.

26th: I was trying to finish the jobs requested by the teachers, I talked to some friends today, I miss them.

27th: It's already Friday and this week I feel like it went much faster than the previous one. Today I was finalizing and sending all the work. I thought today that if none of this were happening, we would only be on Easter vacation today.
